Let's take a virtual field trip to Wall Street!

The New York Stock Exchange and Nasdaq are both located on the island of Manhattan in New York City. Manhattan is highlighted above in yellow. There is a star in lower Manhattan which is known as the financial district.

Use the search in the upper left hand corner of the Google Earth page. Type in "NASDAQ". Name 2 buildings that are by NASDAQ.

Zoom in closer as you are in the Times Square location of New York City. It is some of the most expensive real estate in the U.S. Describe what you see.

While we are in New York City, search in the upper left hand corner again for Central Park. THAT real estate is even more expensive! Is the park bigger than what you thought? Describe what you see.

Teacher Testimonials

This was a great activity to complete on 9/11. My student's enjoyed learning about the NYSE building. In addition, the Google maps was a big hit. The students found this fascinating.

My kids loved the virtual field trip! They keep asking to do another one. Great resource!

This resource was just what I was looking for. Thanks!

My college level personal finance students enjoyed the virtual tours! I was easily able to integrate this engaging resource into our stock market challenge!

This was a really fun, straightforward, easy to implement activity that the students enjoyed!
