Key about spring cleaning

Spring Cleaning by Vivien Wade

It's time to do a spring clean
House cleaning in every nook
I'll try to make this my aim today,
Though I would much rather cook.

The windows all need washing,
Some are apt to spoil the view,
And as there are just so many
They take too much time to do.

The linen press is a disaster.
It stores more than linen inside,
Light globes, plugs and electric cords
Have become a good place to hide.

Cupboards need urgent attention
The floor is a mess in the pantry,
That really puts me to the test,
So I'll boil the kettle for tea,
Then maybe start after a rest.

It's time to do a spring clean,
But I'm in the mood to delay,
Thinking about it's worn me out
I'll leave it for some other day.

Spring cleaning now is completed,
The house looks exceptional.
All the stress was taken away
When I hired a professional.

Key a spring poem By Emily Dickinson

A Light exists in Spring
by Emily Dickinson

A Light exists in Spring
Not present on the Year
At any other period —
When March is scarcely here

A Color stands abroad
On Solitary Fields
That glimmers in the sun,
It waits upon the lawn,
It shows the furthest Tree
In the distance —
Then as horizons slip
Or Noons report away
Without the Formula of sound
It passes and we stay —

A quality of loss
Affecting our Content
As Trade had suddenly encroached
Upon a Sacrament.

Emily Dickinson (1830 – 1886) is considered a major American poet, though she was not accorded this honor until well after her death, when her younger sister discovered and began to share the enormous body of work that Emily left behind. Type the spring poem in blue font and use the "right align" tool.
